MAGDALEN ACADEMY – NEWSLETTER 8

Friday 9th January 2026

Every Fortnight

Parents as Partners

Dear Families,

Happy New Year and welcome back! We hope you all had a wonderful Christmas break. Staff made it into school for training despite the snow on Monday. We hosted other schools within the trust for more training linked to our Talk for Writing project. The focus was on teaching non-fiction writing and all the children are working on information texts this half term.

This term we have a big focus on spelling and handwriting. Children in EYFS and KS1 use Read Write Inc as their phonic programme before moving onto spelling rules. We have made the decision not to send spellings to learn at home moving forward. There is a lot of research to say that learning lists of words does not impact on general writing, and this seems to be the case. We also realise this is often an added stress at home. Class teachers may send copies of the words home so that you can practise if you wish but there will be no weekly test.

We are also focusing on handwriting. Currently, we have asked all children to write in pencil while we finalise the criteria for working in pen. Many children will return to this quickly, but we want to ensure consistent expectations across the classes. We will share more detail about spelling and handwriting in the coming weeks.

Regards

Mrs Louise Arrowsmith

Executive Head

SCHOOL UNIFORM – MAGDALEN ACADEMY

We have a few children that are coming into school not wearing their full school uniform. Year 6 have their leavers hoodies which they are allowed to wear instead of their school sweatshirt.

Please can you ensure that proper school trousers/skirts are worn, no leggings, joggers or jeans.

School shoes should also be worn; however smart full black trainers are acceptable.

On Bushcraft Day (Wednesday) then it is non-uniform for Eagles & Falcons, we suggest old warm clothes as they will be outside in all weather.

PE Day – should be royal blue or white t shirt, with royal blue or black shorts. In the winter then jogging bottoms can be worn (non-branded), plain white or black trainers.

Children can wear small stud earrings, however these will need to be removed for PE.
